Media Platforms Design TeamDon't have time to flip through the whole newspaper, but want to still be in the know? You're not alone.According to The Pew Research Center, more Americans are turning to digital outlets over newspapers, radio and even TV for their news. Every day, there are more and more apps and services designed to consolidate the latest news into easy-to-consume digital editions.One recent one, Facebook's Paper app, has been getting a lot of buzz. It's beautifully designed, and provides the best from your personal Facebook News Feed as well as news from other categories, including top headlines, technology, pop culture and sports.The release of Paper set me forth on a mission: to find the best news aggregator for you! What I found was the best services offer great content that is personalized and efficient to your needs. Here are a few I would recommend:High Design: Paper (free app) Besides for being visually pleasing, Facebook's Paper app is great for exploring stories from your friends and news from around the world on your favorite topics. Currently, Paper offers content curated by their editors, so you may get a lot of news from their favorite publishers like Time or The New York Times. Be careful if you're already spending too much time on Facebook, this may pull you down the rabbit hole even more!RELATED: The Apps You Need to Keep Up with All Things OlympicsA Personalized Approach: Flipboard (free app) This stunningly visual app is better at giving you control over the content you view. You can determine which sources you want, and hone in more closely on topics that interest you. It's provided in a magazine-style layout, so it feels organized and lets you be your own editor in chief.Smarter Discovery: Zite (free app) Zite has an impressive learning algorithm behind it, so the more you use it, the more attuned it becomes to your tastes. While reading, you gives stories a thumbs up or thumbs down, so after a while you'll see more of what you want. You might end up with so much that you want to read that you won't have time to get to it all. Try an app like Pocket to save content for offline reading later.RELATED: Top Organization Apps to Get Yourself Sorted OutComedic and to the Point: The Skimm (free daily newsletter) Missed the water cooler chat for the day? No worries — the duo behind the Skimm offer up cocktail-worthy discussion topics in easily digestible, conversational tones. You'd think you're chatting with your best friend, but you're really getting the latest news highlights from former NBC News producers.One and Done: Yahoo's News Digest (free app) If you don't want to take the time to pick categories or choose your sources, Yahoo's News Digest does it for you. There is no customization, just a straight feed of what they deem the most important stories of the day. Twice a day, you are presented with about 10 news stories chosen from a hybrid algorithm, editorially curated approach.It seems as though a new news aggregator is popping up every day — pretty soon we'll need an aggregator to aggregate all of them!TELL US: How do you keep up on the news?Rachel RothmanChief Technologist & Executive Technical DirectorRachel Rothman (she/her) is the chief technologist and executive technical director at the Good Housekeeping Institute, where she oversees testing methodology, implementation and reporting for all GH Labs. Allow Chrome to install unknown apps by going to Settings > Apps > Menu > Special access > Install unknown apps.Install a file manager (such as Cx File Explorer or File Manager) so that you can find the APK file after you download it to your phone.Download an APK file and open it to install it. Alternatively, transfer the APK installer from your computer using USB. If you want to use an app from outside of the Google Play Store, you can install the app's APK file. This article explains how to install APKs on Android 7 or later. Before you can download APK files using Chrome or any other browser, you must first allow unknown apps: Go to your device settings and tap Apps & Notifications (or Apps in older versions of Android). Tap the three dots in the upper-right corner. Tap Special access. Tap Install unknown apps. Tap Chrome (or whichever web browser you use) Move Allow from this source to the On position. Now that you've configured your phone to let you install unknown apps, you'll need a way to find the application file (APK file) on your phone so that you can run it. Android phones typically come with a file manager app you can use, but if you don't have one, search for one of the best Android file managers on Google Play. For example, you can download Cx File Explorer or get File Manager. The easiest way to install an APK file on your Android is to download the file using the default browser, Chrome. Find a website offering the Android app and tap the link to download the APK file. Accept any pop-ups, including "This type of file can harm your device." Only download APK files from reputable sources. A quick Google search can often let you know if an app (or company that makes the app) has a questionable reputation. If your phone's web browser doesn't give you the option to open the file after downloading, open your file explorer app, go to the Downloads folder on your device, then tap the APK file. Allow the app any required permissions it asks for. Then, at the bottom of the installer window, tap Install. Now you'll see the app available in your list of installed apps. If you don't have internet access on your phone, or for any other reason you can't use a browser to download the file, you can still install apps from your computer. Using your computer web browser, download the APK file just like described above. Once it's downloaded, connect to your Android phone and transfer the file. If you've never connected your Android to your computer, turn on USB debugging mode on Android. You can then plug your phone into your computer with a USB cable, and it'll mount the phone like it would a memory stick. Once your phone is connected to your computer, it shows up as another drive in your computer's File Explorer. Move the APK file you downloaded from the app website to the /sdcard/download folder on your phone. Once the file is transferred, use the file explorer app on your phone as described in the previous section to tap the APK file and install the app. If you don't have a USB cable, another solution is to install WiFi FTP Server from Google Play. Then, use a free FTP client software program on your computer (for example, download FileZilla), to transfer the APK file from your computer to the /sdcard/download folder on your phone. However, this is an advanced option and requires an understanding of how to use FTP files. If the APK installer isn't running when you tap it, there's an advanced solution that might work. You can install the APK file on your Android from your computer using a tool called Minimal ADB and Fastboot. Connect your phone via USB and enable USB Debugging. Download Minimal ADB and Fastboot on your computer, and then install it. Run the tool, and a command window opens. With your phone connected to your computer with the USB cable, type the command adb install [device ID]. If the tool detects your phone, an ID for the device appears under List of devices attached. Now you're ready to transfer the APK file. Using Windows File Explorer, find the downloaded APK file on your computer. Right-click the file and select Copy. Using Windows File Explorer, navigate to the Minimal ADB and Fastboot folder (typically c:\Program Files (x86)\Minimal ADB and Fastboot). Paste the APK file into that folder. Rename the APK file to something short so that it's easy to type as a command. Back in the same command window you had open before, type the command adb install app name (replace with the name of your APK file). When you see the word Success, the app is installed on your phone. An APK (Android Package Kit) is a type of file that installs an application for Android. It's just like an executable (EXE) file for Windows or a package installer (PKG) for Mac. If you've ever installed an Android application from the Google Play store, then you've used an APK file without realizing it. When you tap the Install button, Google Play automates the process of transferring the APK file to your phone and running it for you. If the Android app you want to install isn't available on Google Play, you can download the APK file from the web and install it manually. There are many websites where you can find non-Google Play apps to install. For example, visit Apk Pure, Reddit's Apk Directory, or APKMirror. FAQ Can APK files harm your Android? Possibly. Any file you download online can contain a virus, which is why it's important to only download APKs from safe sources. Can I delete APK files on my Android? Yes. APK files are only used to install apps, so once the app is installed, you can delete the APK. What is ConfigAPK on Android? ConfigAPK comes preloaded on Android devices. It's used to run APK files and install apps. Thanks for letting us know! Get the Latest Tech News Delivered Every Day Subscribe Tell us why!
